HOW TO FIND OUT.
Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment of settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble.
Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.
WHAT TO DO.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

GROUND-HOG DAY

A Story That spoils All the Funny Things Said About the 2d Inst.

Owensboro Press of February 2: If anybody tells you this is ground hog day tell him you know better. February 14 is the day on which the annual emerges from his hole.

When the early settlers of this country arrived on its shores they brought many of their native traditions along with them and they also found many among the Indians, of which they had heard nothing before, and one of these was that on a certain day in the year this ground hog came out of his den to look for his shadow. That day, in the almanacs then in use, was noted of February 2, and was called ground-hog day and its conditions observed. One hundred and twenty-five years later the calendar was changed, and the day that had been the 2d of February became the 14th. But the people who paid most attention to the groundhog knew little of almanacs and less of scientific calendars.

An early New England writer, in making an entry in his diary, wrote:
"This is the day in which the little birds do chase their mates, and it is told the elders and the mandragoons put forth the buttons of their robes. It is also the day in which the ground hogge or marmot cometh forth from his den. It is the day in which the younger sort send one another little mysteries of their love and name them valentines, which is but a sad popish custom and not tending whol to godliness." That was February 2, old style.
Every country girl and boy can tell you with perfect faith that the birds "do chase their mates" on Valentine's day, and everybody knows that Valentine's day is February 14.
It is pure ignorance regarding one of our most firmly cherished superstitions; it is ignorance of history and even of the almanac to maintain or believe that February 2 is ground hog day.

Sound Money Democrats.
Notwithstanding the boast of the silverites that the sound money men would "come back" like whipped cows when their votes were needed, the sound money democrats of Bowling Green seem to be acting in harmony with their expressed views of last fall and are not "coming back" as rapidly as the silverites expected.

The following special from this place to the Louisville Post is a straw.
"Major Wells Covington, Chairman of the Sound Money Democratic Committee, of this county, called the committee together yesterday afternoon to consider the practical situation, and to determine what recommendations the committee should offer to the Palmer and Buckner democrats in regard to the participation in the free silver primary to nominate candidates for city offices, called for March 9. The situation was discussed at length, and the course the silver men are pursuing was vigorously commented upon by every member present. It was unanimously decided to call a sother meeting of the committee within the next ten days to prepare an address urging all sound money democrats to refrain from voting in the silver primary and to guard carefully against committing any act that might compromise their cause."—[Third District Republican.

The editor who penned the following truthful lines had evidently been there in person: "It takes wind, gall scintillating acrobatic imagination, a railroad pass and a couple of white shirts to run a newspaper, but no money. Keep that for sordid trades people who charge for their wares.
The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. He has a charter from the State to act as a door mat for the community. He will get the paper out somehow, and stand up for the town, and whoop it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon toed daughter's tacky wedding, and blow about your big footed son when he gets a $4-a-week job, and weep over your shivered soul when it is released from your gasping body, and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. Don't worry about the editor, he'll get along. The Lord only knows how—but somehow."

A Lesson to Labor.
A dispatch from California a short time since reported that a body of workmen in that State had taken some Japanese workmen and had strung them up to trees, nearly strangling them. When cut down, they were told to "get out" or worse would follow. The reason for this was that the Japs worked so cheaply that the other workmen could not compete against them. There is probably not a workman in this country who does not consider it a treasured evil and a direct injury to him that foreign workmen come here willing to work for starvation wages and who, by so doing, are the means of cutting down wages. The object of the Contract Labor law was to lessen this evil, and it has lessened it

ONLY A MEMORY.

The Old Black Mammy of Ante Bellum Days.

The older generation of negro women who were brought up before the war had the advantage of close association with gentle and refined ladies.
Essentially imitated as the colored race is they copied the manners and grace of the people they served, and many an old black mammy has the manners of a grande dame, many an old uncle has the manners of a Chesterfield. The young negroes have had no such opportunities and would have used them if they had. They have chosen to imitate the worst class of whites, and it is as if one saw a vulgar picture ineffably seasoned by being reproduced in glaring colors that emphasized in every unlovely detail. They believe liberty is license, and do not know that reverence and respect are attributes that adorn the highest station.

One of the saddest pictures of the passing away of the old fashioned negroes is the loss of that negro mammy. In every southern home she was a figure unique in the peculiar love and tenderness that surround her. In her strong arms every white baby was first laid, with the certainty that nothing amiss could befall it there. On her broad breast child-sorrow sobbed themselves out, and broken hearts were mended by the magic of mammy's touch. Her hands guided the first faltering step, her tongue first opened the doors of romance and marvels; her deep, soft, mellow and sweet as the voice of love crowned the lullabies that lie on the threshold of hush a-by-lend. The passing years but strengthen the ties that bound the black mammy and her white children. It was her province to watch over their growth and
"mind" you manners! was a stern admonition no well-bred southern child dared disregard. She packed the trunk of the boy about to start to college; she inspected the suiters who a-wooed and passed judgment; often as shrewd as unconventional, upon them, she pinned the veil over the face of the bride, and gave sage advice on the best way to manage her husband to her "baby" about to embark upon the uncertain sea of matrimony. In every event of life, joy and sorrow, mammy's faithful heart beat like the echo of her white folks.

Did sickness come, what hand so tender on the aching brow, what watching so unwearied as mammy's?
Who so wise in the knowledge of herbs and simples? What breath has ever such a flavor as that made by her skillful hands? And when death kissed the eyelids down it was mammy's loving hands that did the last and offices for the dead and robed them for burial. She folded lilies in the pale hands and she and her mistress, white mother and black mammy, who had both known the passion and pain of motherhood who had both lost the child that had lain upon their breasts, walked hand in hand behind the tiny coffin to the little graveyard in the corner of the garden.
Afterwards when the sweet ground myrtle had hidden the mound with living green, it was mammy who would go in the quiet dusk of summer evenings and bring her mistress away from that hallowed spot.

True, loyalty, devotion, knightly qualities were stamped in every line in mammy's fine old face and made it beautiful. Sometimes misfortune befell her white people, but mammy's love never failed. The war came and set her free. Mammy stayed on. She served new people, and would not leave her own. Shined in the unwritten history of a thousand southern homes it is the story of the faithful devotion of some old negro woman who remained and served for love the people too poor to pay her wages. Sometimes she turned to account her talent for cooking or nursing, and with the money thus made she educated the children of her former mistress, and gave them a start in life. If anything could justify slavery it was this mutual love and tenderness that existed between the black mammy and their white "chilun."

So few, so few, of the white children now who are privileged to know the spoiling and correcting and chiding of a black mammy, who listen to the tales "Breer Rabbit" and the "tar baby" from the inspired lips that embroider the tale to suit the occasion who miss the delicious terror of having their souls scared out of them by tales of witches and haunts. Unfortunate little people, who know nothing of a colored nurse except somebody who jerks the little arms out of the socket and stands the baby perambulator in the glaring sun, while she examines millinery in a shop window or flirts with a "cullud gemman" in tan shoes and hand-me-down clothes, who, too has embraced the profession of loafing for a livelihood.

Soon the last bandana headress will be gone from the street. The merchants will have no more cause to display genuine blue calico, for imitation French millinery will crown every colored woman's head, and ragged flimsy clothe her body. Dinah no longer will wheel the baby carriage passing away of the old fashioned negroes is the loss of that negro mam-

my. In every southern home she was a figure unique in the peculiar
love and tenderness that surround
her. In her strong arms every white
baby was first laid, with the certainty
that nothing amiss could befall it
there. On her broad breast child-sorrow sobbed themselves out, and
broken hearts were mended by the
magic of mammy's touch. Her hands guided the first faltering step, her tongue first opened the doors of romance and marvels; her deep, soft,
mellow and sweet as the voice of love crowned the lullabies that lie on the threshold of hush a-by-lend. The passing years but strengthen the ties
that bound the black mammy and her white children. It was her province
to watch over their growth and
"mind" you manners! was a stern admonition no well-bred southern child dared disregard. She packed
the trunk of the boy about to start to college; she inspected the suiters who
a-wooed and passed judgment; often
as shrewd as unconventional, upon
them, she pinned the veil over the face of the bride, and gave sage advice on the best way to manage her husband to her "baby" about to embark upon the uncertain sea of matrimony. In every event of life, joy and
sorrow, mammy's faithful heart beat
like the echo of her white folks.

Did sickness come, what hand so
tender on the aching brow, what
watching so unwearied as mammy's?
Who so wise in the knowledge of herbs and simples? What breath has ever such a flavor as that made by her skillful hands? And when death kissed the eyelids down it was mammy's loving hands that did the last and offices for the dead and robed them for
burial. She folded lilies in the pale hands and she and her mistress, white mother and black mam-
my, who had both known the passion
and pain of motherhood who had
their breasts, walked hand in hand
behind the tiny coffin to the little
graveyard in the corner of the garden.
Afterwards when the sweet ground
myrtle had hidden the mound with
living green, it was mammy who
would go in the quiet dusk of summer evenings and bring her mistress
away from that hallowed spot.

True, loyalty, devotion, knightly
qualities were stamped in every line
in mammy's fine old face and made it beautiful. Sometimes misfortune befell her white people, but mammy's love never failed. The war came and set her free. Mammy stayed on. She served new people, and would not leave her own. Shined in the unwritten history of a thousand southern homes it is the story of the faithful
devotion of some old negro woman who remained and served for love the people too poor to pay her wages. Sometimes she turned to account her talent
for cooking or nursing, and with the money thus made she educated the
children of her former mistress, and gave them a start in life. If anything could justify slavery it was this mutual love and tenderness that existed between the black mammy and
their white "chilun."

So few, so few, of the white children
now who are privileged to know the
spoiling and correcting and chiding
of a black mammy, who listen to the
tales "Breer Rabbit" and the "tar
baby" from the inspired lips that
embroider the tale to suit the occasion
who miss the delicious terror of having their souls scared out of them by tales of witches and haunts. Unfor-

of a colored nurse except somebody
who jerks the little arms out of the socket and stands the baby perambu-

examines millinery in a shop window
or flirts with a "cullud gemman" in
tan shoes and hand-me-down clothes,
who, too has embraced the profession
of loafing for a livelihood.

Soon the last bandana headress
will be gone from the street. The

HOW TO FIND OUT.
Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment of settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stands clear, it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. ## GROUND-HOG DAY

A Story That Spoils All the Funny Things Said About the 2d Inst.

Owensboro Press of February 2: If anybody tells you this is ground hog day tell him you know better. February 14 is the day on which the animal emerges from his hole.

When the early settlers of this country arrived on it shores they brought many of their native traditions along with them and they also found many among the Indians, of which they had heard nothing before, and one of these was that on a certain day in the year the ground hog came out of his den to look for his shadow. That day, in the almanacs then in use, was noted of February 2, and was called ground-hog day and its conditions observed. One hundred and twenty-five years later the calendar was changed, and the day that had been the 2d of February became the 14th. But the people who paid most attention to the ground-hog knew little of almanacs and less of scientific calendars.

An early New England writer, in making an entry in his diary, wrote: "This is the day in which the little birds do chase their mates, and it is told the elders and the mandragons put forth the buttons of their roots. It is also the day in which the ground hog or marmot cometh forth from his den. It is the day in which the younger sort send one another little mysteries of their love and name them valentines, which is but a sad popish custom and not tending with to godliness." That was February 2, old style. Every country girl and boy can tell you with perfect faith that the birds "do chase their mates" on Valentine's day, and everybody knows that Valentine's day is February 14.

It is pure ignorance regarding one of our most firmly cherished superstitions; it is ignorance of history and even of the almanac to maintain or believe that February 2 is ground hog day.

Sound Money Democrats.
Notwithstanding the boasts of the silverites that the sound money men would "come back" like whipped curs when their votes were needed, the sound money democrats of Bowling Green seem to be acting in harmony with their expressed views of last fall and are not "coming back" as rapidly as the silverites expected.

The following special from this place to the Louisville Post is a straw.

"Major Wells Covington, Chairman of the Sound Money Democratic Committee, of this county, called the committee together yesterday afternoon to consider the practical situation, and to determine what recommendations the committee should offer to the Palmer and Buckner democrats in regard to the participating in the free silver primary to non-state candidates for city offices, called for March 9. The situation was discussed at length, and the course the silver men are pursuing was vigorously commented upon by every member present. It was unanimously decided to call a sister meeting of the committee within the next ten days to prepare an address urging all sound money democrats to refrain from voting in the silver primary and to guard carefully against committing any act that might compromise their cause."—[Third District Republican.]

The editor who penned the following truthful lines had evidently been there in person: "It takes wind, gall scintillating acrobatic imagination, a railroad pass and a couple of white shirts to run a newspaper, but no money. Keep that for sordid trades people who charge for their wares. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. He has a character from the State to act as a door mat for the community He will get the paper out somehow, and stand up for the town, and whoop it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon toed daughter's tacky wedding, and blow about your big footed son when he gets a $4-a-week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from your gasping body, and smile at your piddy wife's second marriage. Don't worry about the editor, he'll get along: The Lord only knows how—but somehow."

A dispatch from California a short time since reported that a body of workmen in that State had taken some Japanese workmen and had strung them up to trees, nearly strangling them. When cut down, they were told to "get out" or worse would follow. The reason for this was that the Japs worked so cheaply that the other workmen could not compete against them. There is probably not a workman in this country who does not consider it a tremendous evil and a direct injury to him that foreign workmen come here who are willing to work for starvation wages and who, by so doing, are the means of cutting down wages. The object of the Contract Labor law was to lessen this evil, and it has lessened it a certain extent. Immigrants coming here of their own accord and without special inducement come for the purpose of bettering their condition, of getting better wages, and they are not willing to work for the wages they got at home. There is not a workman in the country who would fight the repeal of the contract labor law. There is not a citizen who would dare openly to urge it repeal. And yet thousands upon thousands of workmen are willing that we should hire these foreigners in their own country at their pauper wage to do our work. There is no difference between bringing over foreign workmen by contract to work in this country at their home wages and contracting to bring over and import free into this country the goods produced at their homes by those workmen at their pauper wages; except that in the former case the little pittance which those workmen earned would be spent in this country while in the latter case—i. e. under Free-Trade—it would be spent in their own countries. The intelligent workmen of the country are fast coming to realize this vital truth. The cause of Free-Trade is on the down grade.—[Ex.]

Fusion Agreement Smashed Morganfield, Ky., Feb. 4.
The fusion in this county agreed to by the silverite and Populist committees has been knocked into smithereens. Mr. John S. Lamb, the Populist nominee for Representative, will withdraw in a card in the local papers to morrow morning. This means that the Populists will not vote with the silverites in this county.

Poor Prospects.
The prospect for fusion are poor. The two sub-committees of the Democratic and Populist parties met yesterday, and after a heated session of four hours adjourned without accomplishing anything. The meeting of both the committees next Wednesday will hardly do more.

The Populists do not ask much. They want the Democratic party to surrender the traditional rooster and say they will not vote under that time honored emblem.

They want the office of county judge; will Penn Taylor be asked to get out of the way?

They want the office of circuit clerk. How will the friends of John Lyddane, Tom Alexander and Ida Robertson receive the suggestion?

They demand the office of assessor. There are some Democrats who would like to have that office and they have some friends who would like a chance to vote for them.

They want the county representative and state senator, the only political offices for which an election occurs this year.

They would like to have the office of county school superintendent, but Bob Lancaster's friends will have something to say about that.

There is no reason for a fusion. There is not a doubt in the world as to the success of the Democratic ticket with it. If nothing is to be gained by it why make it? If the offices were at state fusion would still be bad politics and of questionable moral nature.

There is no basis for fusion. A surrender of the Democratic name or device would raise a revolt among the Democracy that not a candidate would be elected, yet the Populists plainly tell us they will listen to nothing else. The idea of forcing the candidates for any office off the track for such a purpose is preposterous. If those who take to themselves the running of the party machinery desired to work a game like this they should have forestalled the situation but they cannot charge it.

The prospects for fusion are very bad.—[Owensboro Press.]

A DISGUISED ENEMY,

Chronic catarrh often makes it approach its disguise. Before a person knows it, he may become a victim of chronic catarrh. Its onset may be gradual, its development insidious, and at last the victim finds himself in the clutches of a treacherous disease. A slight cold, a tendency to sneeze, a puffiness in the nose and head, ruddiness or crackling in the ears, stringy mucus in the throat, slight cough or wheeziness, snoring during sleep, any one of these symptoms should be regarded as a warning. What can be cured in the beginning in a week or two, by using Pe-ru-na, is allowed to become chronic, may require months of ineffectual treatment. You had better take Pe-ru-na now, for by and by you may be obliged to take it a long time in order to get well. Pe-ru-na is the remedy for catarrh. Almost everybody knows that by hearsay and thousands know it by blessed experience.

The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ohio, are sending Dr. Hartman's latest book on chronic catarrh and climatic diseases of winter free of charge—64 pages instructively illustrated.

ONLY A MEMORY.

The Old Black Mammy of Ante Bellum Days.
The older generation of negro women who were brought up before the war had the advantage of close association with gentle and refined ladies. Essentially imitated as the colored race is they copied the manners and grace of the people they served, and many an old black mammy has the manners of a grande dame, many an old uncle has the manners of a Chesterfield. The young negroes have had no such opportunities and would not have used them if they had. They have chosen to imitate the worst class of whites, and it is as if one saw a vulgar picture ineffectually seasoned by being reproduced in glaring colors that emphasized in every unlovely detail. They believe liberty is license, and do not know that reverence and respect are attributes that adorn the highest station.

One of the saddest pictures of the passing away of the old fashioned negroes is the loss of that negro mammy. In every southern home she was a figure unique in the peculiar love and tenderness that surround her. In her strong arms every white baby was first laid, with the certainty that nothing amiss could befall it there. On her broad breast childish sorrows sobbed themselves out, and broken hearts were mended by the magic of mammy's touch. Her hands guided the first faltering step, her tongue first opened the doors of romance and marvels; her deep, soft, mellow and sweet as the voice of love crooned the lullabies that lie on the threshold of hush-a-by-land. The passing years but strengthen the ties that bound the black mammy and her white children. It was her province to watch over their growth and "mind" you manners! was a stern admonition no well-bred southern child dared disregard. She packed the trunk of the boy about to start to college; she inspected the suiters who a-wooing and passed judgment; often as shrewd as unconventional, upon them, she pinned the veil over the face of the bride, and gave sage advice on the best way to manage her husband to her "baby" about to embark upon the uncertain sea of matrimony. In every event of life, joy and sorrow, mammy's faithful heart beat like the echo of her white folks.

Did sickness come, what hand so tender on the aching brow, what watching so unwearied as mammy's? Who so wise in the knowledge of herbs and simples? What breath has ever such a flavor as that made by her skillful hands? And when death kissed the eyelids down it was mammy's loving hands that did the last and offices for the dead and robed them for burial. She folded lilies in the pious hands and she and her mistress, white mother and black mammy, who had both known the passion and pain of motherhood who had both lost the child that had lain upon their breasts, walked hand in hand behind the tiny coffin to the little graveyard in the corner of the garden. Afterward when the sweet ground myrtle had hidden the mound with living green, it was mammy who would go in the quiet dusk of summer evenings and bring her mistress away from that hallowed spot.

True, loyalty, devotion, knightly qualities were stamped in every line in mammy's fine old face and made it beautiful. Sometimes misfortune befell her white people, but mammy's love never failed. The war came and she never left. Mammy stayed on. She scorned new people, and would not leave her own. Shrouded in the unwritten history of a thousand southern homes if the story of the faithful devotion of some old negro woman who remained and served for love the people too poor to pay her wages. Some times she turned to account her talent for cooking or nursing, and with the money thus made she educated the children of her former mistress, and gave them a start in life. If anything could justify slavery it was this maternal love and tenderness that existed between the black mammy and their white "chillun."

So few, so few, of the white children now who are privileged to know the spoiling and correcting and chiding of a black mammy, who listen to the tales "Breer Rabbit" and the "tar baby" from the inspired lips that embroider the tale to suit the occasion who miss the delicious terror of having their souls scared out of them by tales of witches and haunts. Unfortunately little people, who know nothing of a colored nurse except somebody who jerks the little arms out of the socket and stands the baby perambulator in the glaring sun, while she examines millinery in a shop window or flirts with a "cullud gemmum" in tan shoes and hand-me-down clothes, who, too has embraced the profession of loafing for a livelihood.

Soon the last bandana headress will be gone from the street. The merchants will have no more cause to display genuine blue calico, for imitation French millinery will crown every colored woman's head, and ragged flannel cloth her body. Dinah no longer will wheel the baby carriage

She has taken a step forward, or backward, in the process of evolution. The house is unswayed the food uncooked, the dusty pickaninny sprawls unheeded across the cabin door, for the new colored woman has got a bicycle and is taking a spin up the avenue instead of spinning at home. But we know what it was to be rocked to sleep in the loving arms of a black mammy, look back sorrowfully and mourn the vanished grace of a day that is dead, and regret the evolution that is bringing to the front the colored new woman.—[New Orleans Picayune.]

Among the bills introduced in the Legislature are one to send inebriates to a gold cure at the expense of the county; one "to stop any train at any station where any passenger desires to get off;" one to force corporation to completely disclose their business and surrender to the municipality all profits over 6 per cent; one for the confiscation of the plants of corporations, and one to regulate "any minister, priest, or any person having charge of a church," when he fails to practice what he preaches. Did we omit the name of this Legislature? Is it necessary to say that it is the Kansas Legislature?—[Ex.]

Populist-Silverites Attempted Fusion in Daviess a Failure.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 3.—The silverite and Populist sub-committees of seven members each, recently appointed to effect fusion arrangements, met at the court house this morning for joint conference. The silverite committeemen announced that they had no proposition to offer.

Populist Chairman T. S. Pettit then offered a fusion resolution for a division of the offices and providing that he device on the ballot should be a rooster, a blow and a hammer. Capt. Sam Jones offered a resolution favoring the silver dollar as device. The silverites moved to adopt the rooster only as a ballot device. This was lost on a tie vote—seven Democrats for, seven Populists against. The Populists then moved to adopt the Peit device and also to adopt the James device. Both motions were lost by a party tie vote. The conference adjourned, after debating nearly all day, without taking further action. The committee will meet again Thursday, February 11.

REALISTIC PRACTICE.

Account of Recent Trial of Military Maneuvers in Austria.
The Austrian fortress maneuvers of Prezemysl in Galicia were of an exceedingly realistic character, fully charged field ammunition being employed. The works of defense and attack were commenced on September 11 in the emperor's presence. The work was pushed on during the night, in spite of heavy rain, and the besiegers successfully repulsed a sortie. Notwithstanding these obstacles, the construction of batteries was completed early on the 12th, with the guns in position and ready for opening fire. The assailants then evacuated their works, and the defense opened a real fire on the works erected. At noon the signal to "cease fire" was given, and it was found that the fire of the defense had been very effective. During its progress, moreover, the effects were observed from a balloon. A further bombardment of the works of the assailants in the presence of the emperor was put a stop to by pouring rain.

The next day, Sunday, was a day of rest, and on the 14th the emperor witnessed a bombardment by the besiegers with live shell of a permanent fortification, in front of which were advanced batteries and entrenchments. After the signal "cease fire" was given, at noon an inspection demonstrated the terrible effects of modern artillery on fortifications. At night, as soon as it was dark, the assailants proceeded to execute works of approach. Several infantry engagements took place, and various processes of illumination were experimented with. Early next morning the works of the besiegers were shelled by the defense, who used both their position guns and their field pieces. The effects were then ascertained. During the following night operations were continued on both sides, and in the morning, the besiegers having succeeded in destroying the advanced works of the defense and silencing the fire of the guns enfilading the foreground of the work chosen for an assault, they exploded the mines which they had laid, and proceeded to storm the fortification. This terminated the maneuvers, which were highly instructive, although of course they were not an accurate reproduction of an actual siege, in so far as the assailants did not work under fire.—Revue de Cerele Militaire.

QUITE A FEAT.

An interesting piece of rapid structural engineering work. An interesting piece of rapid structural engineering work was accomplished on the Great Eastern railway system during the early hours one morning. The railway bridge over the river Ouse on the London and Norwich main line near Ely was completely removed and a new wrought-iron bridge of one span, of some 300 tons of dead weight and 130 feet long, erected in its place. The night was extremely dark and the work was rendered somewhat difficult by the prevailing high wind and heavy gusts of rain. About 1:30 a. m. operations were begun by removing the rails and upper cross-timbers. Half an hour later the first of the iron girders, which numbered 20 in all and weighed about six tons each, was lifted out by powerful steam cranes and shunted on to trucks. The work was completed by 7:30 a. m. Preparations were now made for placing the new bridge, which had been previously erected on staging alongside the old bridge, into position. This was effected by slowly hauling the entire structure by means of powerful winches fixed on both river banks. The bridge itself rested on trolleys running on rails laid along the abutments. The next business was to relieve the trolleys of their 300 tons of dead weight and to lower the bridge by powerful hydraulic jacks on to its permanent supports. This done, rails were laid, the permanent way was made good, and the main line connection completely restored, with a delay to only one train of the ordinary Sunday service.—London Times.

Professors' Salaries.
When the University of Chicago was started it was thought good policy to secure eight or ten of the best men in the country by offering them the unprecedented salary of $7,000. But aside from the few men thus favored for a special reason at the beginning, other salaries have been fixed upon about the scale that obtains at Yale, Harvard and half a dozen other first-class institutions. In other words, $5,000 is the maximum that any instructor may hope to reach, while the rank and file of the men are paid from $1,500 to $2,500.

TRYING BEING A REQUEST.
A good story is told of the late Captain R. B. Forbes, who was interested in some seventy sail of fine vessels, and who built many clipper ships for the India and China trade before the general application of steam. It seems that while testing the sailing qualities of a clipper-chooner, she was struck by a squall in Boston Harbor, fell on her side, filled with water, and went down. Fortunately she had a boat in tow, which saved all hands. He would not start a sheet nor luff her into the wind to prevent her being capsized; he was determined to know what she could do in a squall, even at the risk of his life and the lives of select party of nautical friends he had with him; and although this experiment may have been of interest to Captain Forbes, it is doubtful whether his invited guests relished their position. Later she was raised without much trouble and had her spars reduced. For years afterwards she was famous along the coast of China for her speed.—[From Harper's Round Table.]

Too Much Knife!
The use of the surgeon's knife is becoming so general, resulting fatally in such a large number of cases, as to occasion general alarm.

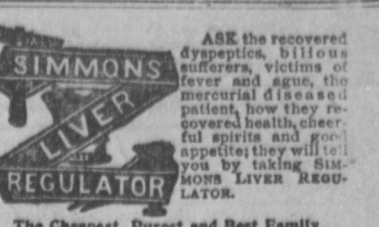

Mr. William Walpole, of Waltham, South Dakota, writes: "About three years ago, there came under my left eye a little blotch about the size of a small pea. It grew rapidly, and shooting pains ran in every direction. I became alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it cancer, and said that it must be cut out. This I would not consent to, having little faith in the indiscriminate use of the knife. Reading of the many cures made by S. S. S., I determined to give that medicine a trial, and after I had taken it a few days, the cancer became irritated and began to discharge. This after awhile ceased, leaving a small scar, which finally dropped off, and only a healthy little scar remained to mark the place where the destroyer had held full sway."

Four years of clover, but not of Grover.

It might be said of W. J. Bryan's lecture tour, that it "ran in the ground."

More people than we think, are simply afflicted with a want of good common sense.

SUNDAY is valentines day and much waste paper will be fired through the mail.

THE next four years of the Nation's History will be recorded as having been an era of great prosperity, good will and peace among men.

A prominent feature of what used to be the Democratic party, is that it has forsaken its time honored principles, and is now engaged in a wild dash for county offices in this state.

HON. D. H. SMITH was elected from this district it is true, but he can not be elected, neither can other Democrats be elected. A Republican will be elected from this district. This is the word with the bark on it.

In the counties of this State where the Silver Democrats and the Populists have fused, the Populists have gotten the lion's share of the offices, which is another striking example of the notorious fact that the tail oftentimes wags the dog.

THERE is a difference of opinion as to which day is ground hog day. Some maintain that it is February 2nd, while others say it is February 14th. This is an important matter and we would be pleased for some of our friends to settle this matter. Which is ground hog day, and why so called?

THAT large array of small fry politicians, who conceived the idea that Major McKinley would be merely a tool in the hands of Mr. Hanna, are invited to view the men selected for Cabinet portfolios. We were given to understand in the outset, that Mr. McKinley is his own master and proposes to be prudent in fact as well in name. In the selection of a Secretary of the Treasury the interest of the people and not the masters of politicians seems to have been Mr. McKinley's motive. Thus far no man can say that there is a power behind the throne. There is every reason to believe that Major McKinley has at heart and that he will give us a protective and prosperous administration.

If a Populist wants to test the love the Democratic party has for them, let a fusion proposition be submitted in a county where a Democratic nomination is equivalent to an election and that love will be tested at once. Look for instance, at Davies county, Union county, Hardin county, and we could name a dozen other counties. In these counties the Democrats scoff at the idea of a fusion and say, "d—n the Populists, we don't need them. They can go to h—l." The same condition exists in Ohio county today. The bosses of the Democratic party sit around and talk of how "we have hoodwinked the Populists—how we have killed them and got them all in the Democratic party." Those Democratic politicians are without principle, they are without any morals or self-respect and have tried their infamous business upon the Populist party, by working on a few of the supposed prominent Populists, and expect the rank and file of the Populist party to follow like sheep to the slaughter pen.

SOME five or six years ago—perhaps we had better say ten years ago—the Democratic party of this State was dominant and arrogant. At that time it was thought that a man could hardly be respectable and be a Republican. When the Populist party came forth, it was hooted at by the same Democratic party. It was held up to ridicule and scorn. The mighty, however, have fallen. They have been relieved of the burdens of governing the State, and in the last election twelve of the electoral votes of the State were cast for Major McKinley. The most interesting feature of this state of affairs, is, that the Democratic party, once secure in its supposed strength is now the weakest, most abject party in the State. It has been soundly beaten by the Republicans, and it now presents to the eyes of the people this pitiable scene: It is on its knees before the once despised Populists crying out in its agony: "Save us Pops or we perish." When we say Democratic party, we refer to that smacking aggregation who were going to elect W. J. Bryan and give us "free silver or bust."

SOME two-by-four free silver papers in this State are disposed to make capital out of the state of affairs now existing at Eddyville penitentiary and the Hopkinsville Asylum. These matters while seemingly unfortunate are not so, but when given careful thought will give good citizens reason to congratulate themselves because of the fact that we have a set of officials who will examine into matters and who will help to the line let the chips fall where they may. The hue and cry raised at these institutions is clearly the result of one or two things or both: Either inefficiency and mismanagement or political spite and meanness. This paper not knowing the facts cannot take upon itself the responsibility of giving an opinion in these matters. It can say however that there is a striking contrast between the action of our Republican officials on these matters, and that of Democratic officials when Mr. Tate was mismanaging affairs at Frankfort. Our Republican administration has shown that it will correct abuses if there are any and that our officials will be made to walk straight and show clean hands. Mr. Bradley in his first race charged that race was being perpetrated at Frankfort, but there was no investigation or attempt at correction and the State lost heavily. A Democratic administration would not investigate the charges and the result is well known. Hence we say that the people should note with pleasure the fact that Republican officials will, through a Republican administration, be made to give us a good public service or else step down and out.

A Devotee of the Enemy.
"Half a loaf is better than no bread," is the old saying; and half Free Trade is better than no Free Trade at all, according to the Free-Trade and Mugwump newspapers. They know that the Wilson law with its vicious ad valorem schedules are doomed; they have read its fate in election returns ever since the wretched thing of "shreds and patches" became a law. But the Free Traders think there is no use giving up the old ship altogether. They say to themselves, "Even a raft from the old timbers is better than no ship at all." And so they fill the papers and magazines with articles, purporting to be from the pens of Protectionists, similar to the one in the "Forum" on "Middle Ground on the Tariff," advocating "moderate" duties and "free raw materials," and they bring to the front all the selfish manufacturers, who have been notorious free raw material Free Traders for the last generation, and bolster them up as samples of the manufacturers of the country, and say, "Let these be manufacturers and Protectionists, and they want raw material free and only 'moderate' duties on manufactured goods. Why should anybody else want protection when these men do not demand it?" Then they urge the Republicans to recognize the Free Trade Democrats who bolted their ticket and agree on a tariff bill that will not offend them.

Let not the hearts of Protectionists be troubled. This is the old device of a beaten enemy. When they are whipped in the field they sneak into your councils and try to win by finesse what they failed to win by brute force. But their masquerading as friends and allies will not deceive their conquerors. Their adroit trick in trying to shift the issue away from free trade did not succeed. The great battle was fought and won more upon the issue of Protection than anything else. The idle woolen mills of New York and Connecticut and the smokeless chimneys of the New Jersey potteries had their say on election day. Let not the unwary be deceived. All this twaddle about "moderate" Protection and "free raw materials," comes from the enemy; it is a pure Free Trade effort to save as much as possible from the November wreck. [Economist.]

JUDGE W. T. OWEN.

We take the following letter from the Louisville Commercial regarding Circuit Judge W. T. Owen:

In Kentucky we have borrowed our circuit court system directly from the English, and indirectly from the Jews; we have had this system ever since Kentucky was admitted as a state.

Some of the ablest jurists of the Kentucky court of appeals were circuit court judges before their elevation to the bench of the highest tribunal in this state. Among this category may be included Benjamin Mills, Alvin Duval and William S. Pryor. The present chief justice of the Kentucky court of appeals, before his election to the bench of that tribunal, was a circuit judge. The late Hon. Henry J. Stiles had a very high regard for the circuit judiciary of this state; in fact, so high, that he felt honored when the people elected him a circuit judge, although he had been chief justice of the Kentucky court of appeals.

The circuit judge in my district (Sixth judicial district of Kentucky), composing the counties of Davies, McLean, Ohio and Hancock, is the Hon. W. T. Owen.

In the interest of Judge Owen, who is a candidate for re-election, I desire (with your permission Mr. Editor) to call the attention of the people of the district to the personal and professional career of Judge Owen.

Judge Owen is a native of Breckinridge county, Ky., and about forty years ago he began the practice of law at Calhoun. After practicing there for fifteen years he removed to his present home, which is at Owensboro. For sixteen years he was the senior partner of the law firm of Owen & Ellis. This firm was composed of Judge Owen and Hon. W. T. Ellis, and had a very large clientage, and it existed until the election of Mr. Ellis to congress.

Although having a lucrative practice, in 1886 the friends of Judge Owen desired that he become a candidate for circuit judge which he did, against Hon. L. P. Little. After a heated but not unfriendly campaign, Judge Little was nominated over Judge Owen by small majority.

But there was no friction between the distinguished gentlemen. Judge Little and Judge Owen, and in his present race for re-election Judge Owen has no warmer friend than Judge Little.

In his canvass in 1886, a number of people would say to Judge Owen: "Wait until the next time comes and we will elect you." In 1892 the next term came and Judge Owen was nominated for circuit judge without opposition by the Democratic party, and elected without much opposition.

Judge Owen has been circuit judge of this district for four years, and neither this or any other district ever had a better one. He is a painstaking hard-working and conscientious judge. The scripture use the term "men pleasers."

Judge Owen is not a "man pleaser" by any means, but a just judge, who realizes his high calling, realize the purpose for which he is a judge, and fearlessly perform his duties. There is not a lawyer in the state more familiar with the decision and rulings of the court of appeals of Kentucky than Judge Owen. His standing at the Kentucky court of appeals is very high, and as few of his decisions are reversed as any inferior judge in the state. When a case is submitted to him no lawyer litigant need feel any uneasiness that there will not be a thorough investigation of all the law and facts of his case, and usually the correct decision is made, but if Judge Owen errs, and no man is infallible, it is an error of the head and not of the heart. He has as clear and analytical mind as any lawyer in the state, and can grasp a legal proposition very readily.

It is true that his enemies say that he is too tender-hearted, but is this a fault?

"A head full of intellect, without a heart full of kindness, is a lamp without light; a firmament without a sun; a curse, and not a blessing."

Judge Owen's judicial career has been eminently successful. When Judge Samuel laid down his judicial office he challenged scrutiny into his official career in this language:

"Behold, here I am. Witness against me before the Lord, and His anointed. Whose ox have I taken? Or whose ass have I taken? Or whom have I defrauded? Whom have I oppressed? Or of whose hand I received any bribe to blind my eyes therewith? And I will restore it to you." And the people with one voice testified to the purity and impartiality of his judicial career, and their testimony was not more hardly or unani-mously than the testimony of the people of this circuit should be to the purity and justice of their judge.

Like Samuel, no one can be found to reproach Judge Owen with having shown partiality to the rich and powerful, or of having oppressed the poor and weak in any of his judgments, or of having perverted justice in any instance whatever, through fear, through favor or through interest. In private life Judge Owen is unapproachable; his devotion to his family, and friends is well known. And during his long legal career no one has ever questioned his integrity or honesty. It can be truthfully said of him: "He is the noblest work of God's creation an honest man."

If I were to criticize his character I would say he was too altruistic. It has always been an unwritten law in this state to induce a judge after his first term, provided he has made even a respectable official. This rule should be applied in the case of our eminent jurist as Judge Owen, by all means, and I opine that it will be done, and that people of this district will rebuke the cowardly and under-hand attacks on Judge Owen in a decisive manner.

What Will They Do?

What are the gold democrats going to do? We here this question put forth more than often, but as yet no definite answer has been given. It seems that they are "keeping perfect quietude," as the old colored man said, and no one can tell what action they will take in future elections.

After the close of the late war the rebel democrats who had gone out against their country,—honestly convicted, though,—they were,—returned from the war and began organizing their party with an eye to gaining political power, but this was uphill work until the plan of combining with democrats who wore Union uniforms, came into their minds.

And this plan worked effectively as history tells. The Union democrats, though victors in a fierce contest, were absorbed by the very men who had fought them and the result was that in most of Kentucky's counties they held power until a year or two ago when a revolution came and they were voted out in many places. Now, we see the silver democracy which reared and sprouted against the country last year, endeavoring to make peace that they may get together and thereby secure the various offices. Will the factions get together? Will the sound money democrat go with those men who have abused and chastised them so outrageously and severely? Will they do as did the Union democrats, give their votes and get caught in return?—[Panagraph.]

How to Get a Public Office

Many desirable offices are within the gift of the new administration. Those who wish to know what places can be had and how to get them, can obtain this information by sending 75 cents to Soule & Co., Washington, D. C. for the "U. S. Blue Book," showing all government offices and salaries with Civil Service rules, sample examination questions, etc. Under present laws women stand an equal chance with men for positions that insure a comfortable income for life. The "Blue Book" gives complete instructions for office seekers of both sexes, and is besides a valuable book of reference much in demand.

Protection Comes First.

The Free Trade Boston "Herald" is setting up the cry that President McKinley and his supporters should hold an extra session of Congress for the purpose of reforming our currency system and should let the tariff wait, claiming that the tariff was a subordinate issue in the late campaign and that Mr. McKinley owed his election to his financial policy. We should like, in the first place, to ask the "Herald" to what Major McKinley owed his nomination. It has been acknowledged in the "Herald's" own columns many times that Major McKinley's prominence and his consequent nomination were due wholly to his tariff record. Next, we would beg to say to the "Herald" that nineteen times of Major McKinley's vote came from those who wanted a new tariff law enacted at the first opportunity. It is usual to consult the wishes of the majority. Finally, if the "Herald" really believes that the tariff was a subordinate issue in the late campaign, we should like to refer it to speeches made by Major McKinley during the campaign. Not a speech which discussed the issues failed to make the tariff prominent, and almost every speech discussed the tariff first and chiefly over and over again. Major McKinley declared that the first thing to be done was to repeal the existing tariff law and to enact one which would give protection to American labor. Major McKinley and his supporters, in proposing to give immediate attention to the tariff are only carrying out the pledges which they gave and to carry out which the voters elected them.—[Ex.]

My Neighbor Told Me

About Hood's Sarsaparilla and advised me to try it. This is the kind of advertising which gives Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world. Friend tells friend that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures; that it gives strength, health, vitality and vigor, and whole neighborhoods use it as a family medicine.

Hood's Pills act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

Death of Dr. J. H. Harwood.

Dr. John Harwood, who died at Shelbyville, Ky., Friday night, was the nephew of Judge John H. McHenry, Sr., a pioneer citizen of Owensboro, and therefore a cousin of Mr. Robert Craig, Mr. Dr. Hale and Mr. L. S. McHenry. Dr. Harwood was 55 years old, and one of the most prominent physicians of the State. He was a member of the American Medical Association, the Kentucky State Medical Society, and was President of his County Medical Association. He belonged to the Masonic order. He was a brother of the late Senator Harwood, a distinguished lawyer of Shelbyville.—[Inquirer.]

Experience proves the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cures all forms of blood diseases, tones the stomach, builds up the nerves.

For Magistrate in the Hartford Magisterial District we announce Mr. I. S. Lee, of Sulphur Springs, as a candidate. Mr. Lee is a good substantial citizen, a Republican and would make a good official if he is nominated and elected. He was a private in the Civil War. He will no doubt have a large following in the convention.

Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver troubles, catarrh—cures which prove

Mr. Ernest Woodward's school closed last Thursday with nice talks from different parties. One whom I will give his name, Mr. Jackson, the photographer. Mr. Woodward taught us one of the best schools that was ever taught at this place. There was quite a number of premiums awarded on that day, and all of the young folks seemed to enjoy it very much. Edith Clark carried off one premium for missing the least number of words in spelling and another for going the most days. Elbert and E. L. Funk, Ivan Park, Clayton Park, Ida Park and Myrtle Kirk were the boys and one girl that received premiums. Mr. J. W. Tichenor, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood, was in this neighborhood one day last week. I will say to the Republicans after the 13th that that is not the last of the convention, the final election comes off next fall. Every man had better think and do his own work, and be careful whom he puts confidence in. I don't believe I ever saw such strife as this is this time. Mr. Herbert Park, who is attending school at Beaver Dam, is expected home in a few days. Mr. and Mrs. George Hickey called to see J. A. Park's family last Monday. Mrs. J. L. Elmore and child are visiting her parents this week. James Allen of the Concord neighborhood, visited his grandparents Saturday and Sunday. E. P.

Quarterly Conference. The Second Quarterly Conference for Hartford Circuit, will be held at Hartford, February 27th and 28th. The Presiding Elder, Rev. G. H. Hays, D. D., is expected to be present. A full report from the Stewards is very much desired. On account of the above appointment I will preach at Liberty, the Third Sunday and Sunday night, in stead of the fourth. Let all concerned take due notice, and govern themselves accordingly. Very truly, etc., J. S. CHANDLER, P. C.

Did Not Elapse. Mr. John Stahl, who has been clerk for Mr. W. H. Brannon, has long been paying the devoted to Lillie. Guest a young lady from near Louisville, and who is now visiting the family of Mr. Tom Cotton, in Westview. Mr. Stahl has been endeavoring to get the consent of the parents of the young lady to their union, but in this has not been successful and he had fixed upon today to bring matters to a climax by an elopement with the young lady to Greta Gree Roadport. Even in this he was foiled; for some their having broken into his proprietor's store last night and robbed the register, the cash drawer and the safe, John thought it best to defer the elopement until the parolier of his employer's goods had been discovered, when he will again take the matter of elopement under consideration. He hopes more successfully. [Owensboro Press.]

Born to the wife of R. N. Mitchell on the 5th a girl, and to the wife of Robt. Doss a girl. Mrs. Wm. Harlan, McHenry, who died last Wednesday of pneumonia, was buried in the Hamilton Cemetery at this place Thursday. We extend to the bereaved husband and infants our heart-felt sympathy. Hon. C. W. White, of Hardin county, was in town last Thursday on business. We are very much surprised to learn that Mr. White, who has heretofore advocated the cause of "sound money," so strongly, has at last fallen a victim to that dreaded and loathsome disease, "free silver." Trust that he will find some cure ere November rolls around. Madam Rumor reports another wedding in the near future. Mr. E. H. It Hits Kentucky Pension Agent G. M. Adams, of the Louisville Pension Agency, which is one of the offices affected by the above change, was seen by a Commercial reporter relative to the changes necessitated by the President's order. He was much astonished by the news, and said that he had received no advice that such a change was contemplated.

He said: "I have had no intimation of the making of such an order. I presume those who have effected this combination do so under the provisions of the statute, and that an order is all that is necessary to effect such a change."

"The immediate effect of such an order or rather the effect on September 2, will be to abolish this office, which is made up of myself, the agent and fifteen clerks. My pay rolls aggregate annually the sum of $16,000. My salary is $4,000, and that of my chief clerk $1,800, and the other salaries follow at various amounts."

"Of course, wherever the pension rolls are removed, it will necessitate more work at that point, which, in this case, will be at Washington, and it may be that some of the present force at this station will be needed at Washington. The last payment made at this office will be in August."

"There have been a number of candidates who have been seeking the Louisville agency at the hands of the incoming administration, and I can only recall two of the number, Judge Vincent Boring, of London, and Maj. Isaac N. Campbell, of Winchester, but there are three or four applicants for the place. They will be the ones most disappointed. I, of course, am a Democrat, and I expect to go when my resignation is called for. This makes it at least certain for September 1. My term of four years will not expire until April 15, 1898. It has been the custom heretofore to let the occupant of the office serve his full term."

President Harrison permitted Gen. Buell to remain his full term, and President Cleveland extended the same courtesy to Dr. Walton, whom I succeeded.

"As a matter of fact" the passage of the law of March 23, 1896, did not lessen the work of the office at all. While it abolishes the "personal" payment of checks, and took from every agent the power to administer the oath to the pensioner, all the checks had to be mailed to the pensioner upon receipt from him of his voucher from Washington. Under the previous law there were very few personal deliveries of checks, as the only person who called were those who lived in the immediate vicinity of the agency. Under the law of 1896 the whole force is needed to mail the checks promptly to the pensioners, and the work is not in the least lessened."

Resolutions. Adopted by the Ohio County Medical Association upon the death of Dr. John E. Pendleton.

At a meeting of the Ohio County Medical Society, to take proper action in regard to the death of our co-laborer, Dr. John E. Pendleton; Drs. J. T. Miller and J. S. Morton made the following remarks:

Dr. J. E. Pendleton was born in Washington county, Ky., Sept. 1, 1830, and came to this county at about twenty years of age, studied medicine with his uncle, Dr. W. J. Berry, was graduated from the Medical Department of the University of Louisville in 1854, and located in Hartford to practice his profession. In 1857 he took a post graduate course of lectures at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

At the beginning of the late Civil War, he entered the Confederate Army as Captain, but later was Regimental, Brigade and Division Surgeon respectively, which positions he filled with great credit to himself and the cause.

He was the founder and first President of this society, and member of the McDowell, Mississippi Valley and American Associations, also of the County and State Board of Health.

Whereupon the President of the Society, Dr. J. D. Maddox, appointed a committee on resolutions, which reported as follows:

WHEREAS, It has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from his labors, our much esteemed friend and brother, Dr. J. E. Pendleton, who was a man of wonderful attainment and was noted for his devotion to the profession of medicine, and was ever willing to lend his skill and ability to the members of his profession and the cause of suffering humanity, and who was ever ready to give encouragement alike to the struggling practitioner and patient, therefore be it RESOLVED, 1st, That we deeply deplore the death of our much loved and honored, Dr. John E. Pendleton, which occurred on the 31st of January, 1897, and that we sustained a great loss in his removal from our midst to eternity.

RESOLVED, 2nd, That we sympathize with the family in their great and irreparable loss, and tender our sympathies in their bereavement.

RESOLVED, 3rd, That we furnish a copy of these resolutions to the family, and one to the press and that they be spread with the minutes upon the record book of our Society.

"Gentlemen—I wish to express to you my gratitude for the great good that Dr. Miles' Nervine has done for me. I was taken sick with malarial fever and I laid in bed for seven months. After getting over the fever I was thin, nervous and did not regain my lost strength. I tried several proprietary medicines, and finally, I began trying your Nervine, and at once began to improve. Was finally cured, and today I can say I never felt better in all my life, and weigh 70 pounds. This is my normal weight, as I measure 5 feet 10 inches in height." J. H. BAKER. ## FELL FORTYFEET

A Postal Telegraph Lineman Killed.

Jumped From a Trestle Just Beyond Reynolds.

His Ankle was Broken and His Spine Injured so That He Died an Hour Later—Capt. Holloway Hurt.

W. S. Frazee, a lineman, who was at work on the extension of the Postal telegraph line to this city, met with a fatal accident at the Greer trestle near Reynolds yesterday afternoon.

A handcar with several bales of wire and a barrel or insulators was being run over the trestle and Frazee, who was walking the track behind the car, tried to get on. He grabbed a coil of wire and that slipped with him, and then he caught the barrel of insulators. This turned over, and seeing that he was going to fall he jumped to the earth below, a distance of forty-five feet.

He fell on his feet and then dropped over with a cry of pain. The other men got to him as quickly as possible and found him unable to move. They placed him on the hand car and went to Deaneville, two miles away, as quickly as they could. The railroad physician there attended him and found that his right ankle was fractured and that the lower portion of his spine was injured so that his lower extremities were paralyzed. He lived about an hour after the accident and died at 4 o'clock.

His remains were brought here last night over the Illinois Central and prepared for burial. His home was at Brinton, Mich. He was about 35 years old and a widower. He had no children.

Frazee's home was at Brinton, Mich., and telegrams were sent there last night to his relatives to how what disposition should be made of the body, but no reply has been received 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The body is at Miller's undertaking establishment, and will be buried at Elmwood if it is not claimed by the relatives of the deceased.—(Owensboro Press.)

Montgomery, in the practice of law.

Your Present Need

All the impurities which have accumulated during colder weather must now be expelled or serious consequences will result. The one true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Its record of cures is unequalled. Its sales are the largest in the world. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla will prepare you for spring by purifying and enriching your blood and toning and invigorating your whole system.

Chairman Parker Against Fusion
The Free Republic the official organ of the Populist Party in Kentucky, is against fusion. It says: The effects of fusion are just beginning to be felt in Kentucky. Some prominent populist have been fused into the Democratic party so thoroughly that they have gone body and breeches over to the D. O. P. while some would go if they didn't have a reputation to sustain. The reform movement has been put back some time by the unfortunate condition which was put upon us last year; but the old guard will stand firm like the few old greenbackers did, and will form a nucleus for the reformers of another decade to rally around. The spirit of reform is among the people; but they need a little more experience to teach them that the Democratic party, ruled by the corporations and combines. Is not the agent of deliverance. We regret to see any populist so deceived, but we cannot help it. Those who return to the democracy have never been truly converted to populism, or they could not think of linking their fortunes with an antagonistic party.

Wherever the democrats are in earnest for a union of reform forces for patriotic purposes they will not hesitate to join in an independent movement under a new or combination voting device. Where they insist that all candidates must go under the rooster on the democratic ticket it is prima facie evidence that their aim is not to defeat the gold power, but to destroy the peoples party. Let populists never consider a fusion that draws them into the fold of the democracy. Remember the story of the spider and the fly. Also that of Christ and Satan, when Beelzebub took him to the top of the mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world, which were to be his for the asking. Satan was a liar and didn't intend to give Christ any kingdom, but he sought to destroy his usefulness by debauching him. The democratic politicians have agreed upon a whole-sale plan of debauchery as the best way to get rid of the populist party. They will select men of influence in our ranks and work on their ambitions by promising them offices. They may even give them a few offices now, and until our power is broken, then these apostate populists will be kicked into the middle of next summer and when one pokes his head up for an office his populist records will be trotted out and he will be marked as a bolter—one who scratches his ticket—which is a mortal sin. And your innocent fly, being securely wrapped in the spiders web, will be safely hung up for winter provision for the boss democratic spider. Listen not to the siren song, else you perish.

The Family Remedy.
It is an every day remedy.
A good local newspaper has a far-reaching influence and though the following may appear to be "airy" it is not so long drawn after all: "What would a country tradesman say if the sale of a single barrel of flour sufficed for the want of twenty families? Yet this is about the condition of things in the newspaper field. The writer recalls an instance wherein a single copy of a country newspaper was read not only by the inhabitants of an entire district, but was afterwards forwarded to relatives out West. It is further stated that the man who took the paper failed to pay his subscription, no one will wonder that its editor was tired."—[Record.]

PROSPERITY.

Its Return Indicated By the Silk Market.

A Representative of an Importing House Paralyzed at the Size of the Orders Given Him in Chicago.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—It is noted as a somewhat significant sign of prospective condition that the big silk jobbers and retail houses are laying in larger stocks of dress silks than has been the rule at this season for several years past. A representative of a big New York domestic end importing silk house, who has been in the city for a week, and who last October went away empty-handed, so far as orders were concerned, said today that he was simply paralyzed at the success that had attended the week's explorations among the jobbers and retailers. In one single case he had sold $60,000 worth of a single dress pattern that nobody would have handled last fall at a figure of 15 to 20 cents per yard below that which he obtained at this time. He also narrated several similar experiences. The dress silk trade is generally considered as a barometer of existing or prospective financial conditions, retailers being very slow in laying in stocks unless they have confidence in the future based upon inside information; and the readiness of the trade to lay in large stocks at this juncture may be taken as expressing the belief of the trade that, after the cold weather, a general business boom will make itself manifest.
